Guidelines for 3 Hour Glucose Tolerance Test (GTT)

How Do I Prepare for the 3 Hour GTT?

In order to decrease the chance of a falsely abnormal test result, please follow the instructions below:

- Continue to eat regular meals and all the foods you normally enjoy.
- For 3 days prior to the test, you must include at least 150 grams of carbohydrates in your daily diet. Common foods containing carbohydrates are listed below and grouped by the total number of carbohydrates in grams (g) per serving.

15 g of carbohydrates

1 medium apple or orange

30 g of carbohydrates

2 slices of bread

½ bagel

1 and ½ cups dry cereal

½ cup cooked beans, lentils, peas or corn

½ large baked potato

1 banana

½ cup dried fruit

1 cup (8 oz) fruit juice

1 cup (8 oz) milk

45 g of carbohydrates

1 cup cooked rice or pasta

- You must arrive for the test fasting. The day prior to your scheduled test, you may not have anything to eat or drink except for sips of water after 10pm. Do not chew gum during this fasting period.

What should I bring with me to the testing site?

- Your health insurance card
- Something to read or do while sitting quietly during the test
- A bottle of water to sip on during testing if thirsty
- A snack to eat AFTER THE TESTING IS COMPLETED

What Can I Expect during the 3 Hour GTT Test?

- First a fasting blood sample will be drawn, and then you will be given a glucose solution to drink.
- Blood will be drawn 3 more times at 1 hour, 2 hours and 3 hours after drinking the glucose solution. It is important that the blood be drawn at exactly one-hour intervals, so please be available at the indicated times.
- Do not eat, smoke, chew gum or drink anything other than water during the test.
